Translation technology has become more popular in recent years, and it has both good and bad points. In this article, I will talk about the good and bad points of using translation technology.

First, I will talk about the good points of translation technology. It is easy to use and convenient. You can quickly translate text or speech by ア.(use) your smartphone or computer. This is especially helpful when you travel to different countries or talk to people who speak different languages because it saves time and makes communication easier.

Second, translation technology helps people from different countries understand each other. Thanks to it, we can communicate and work together with people from different countries more easily. It gives us many chances to work. Everyone may be able to succeed in the world.

However, there are also some problems with translation technology. First, the translations may not always be perfect. Although the technology has イ.(improve), it still makes some mistakes. Sometimes, the translations have mistakes or misunderstandings, so we must be careful when we use them.

Second, translation technology may not understand the cultural meanings behind words. Every language is connected to its own culture, and some expressions or ideas may not have the same meaning in other languages. The words (make/teaches/may/translation technology/that/us) people from foreign countries angry.

Also, using translation technology too much is not good. Some people say that we don't have to learn foreign languages because we have translation technology. But I don't agree with them. To make friends with foreign people, I think we should speak in our own words. So we should keep studying foreign languages. I think it's important to use translation technology as a tool which helps us study.

Translation technology is convenient and helps us communicate with people all over the world. However, it may not always be perfect and may not understand cultural meanings. It's important to use it as a tool when we study and practice the language we want to learn.
